

ANZAC DAY

Taj B -

For those who we lost.
For those who have lived.
For those who have been wounded.
For those who have faith.
We know your bravery and we know you're tough.
We sure hope you stay well and safe.
We will never forget.
As the sun is rising on Anzac Day it is time to remember.
When the men and women had fought for our country and lives.
They are the ones who are loyal and fearless.
They allowed nothing to stand in their way.
Now don't forget we will never forget you.
Thankyou.

A poem to remember them.
Years and years ago they fought,
And they fought for the people and the country
As they lie upon us, we remember them,
Through the dark times they came for a reason,

They always came and never came down,
To fight they will as they say a goodbye,
To all in need they help the weak.
With all we have we shall repeat,
To say a goodbye and to the people,

We shall always be here to encourage you all,
Threw the times of guns and war,
all the people of this country are proud,
To say thank you to all.

Something we will always remember

Red like the blood they pumped silver like the bullets they fired and we'll always remember the soldiers they hired. Poppies beautifully planted near Flanders Field, but only some were healed, many died over fighting, seeing cannonballs flying, the ones who died got a big surprise, and never ever survived, we read our poems and documentaries but there's something we'll always remember, that they were buried in November.

Owen F -

They fought for freedom
they fought for us,
All these people
are people we trust.

He may have been a father
or someone you knew,
Some of them fought
while some of them cured.

But all of these people
have one thing in common,
Peace for our nation
and to one day come home again.

To The Soldiers Far From Home

Although you're far away from home
And life must seem quite hard
Remember we're all proud of you
That's why we sent this card

War is horrible and sad
And that must seem quite bad
But you are fighting for our rights
Against ideas that make us mad

Our city is quiet without you
We miss you all, it's true
But know you must finish the war
Before we can see you

War is never easy
It's already gone on too long
We hope it's over soon
When you have righted the wrong

Once you get back home
We'll sing a special song
To celebrate your return
And mourn those who are gone

War Was Really Bad

War was really bad; nothing was just that sad.
People witnessing deaths, and unfortunately their last breaths.
Just to fight for our rights, didn't end up so bright.
In Flanders Fields on this specific day, we sit together and pray.
For those who lost their lives in Gallipoli today, everything you see ever seems so grey.
They went through struggle; their lives were hard to juggle.

So, please respect this day, feel grateful because now we're happy and loving. Our country has peace today because of the ANZACs. They worked hard, and eh, it really paid off.
